Life cycle rituals are the most commonly observed parts of Jewish life for most liberal Jews. They help us in celebration and mourning, and they profoundly affect the way we experience our lives.

In the newly published Guide to Jewish Practice, Volume 3 - The Life Cycle, each chapter is devoted to a particular milestone, such as welcoming children, bar and bat mitzvah, weddings, divorce, conversion and the journey of mourning. This book should help readers connect to the past, shape the future, and navigate changes in familial and communal relationships.

About the Editor

Rabbi Teutsch is the Louis and Myra Wiener Professor of Contemporary Jewish Civilization; Chair, Department of Contemporary Jewish Civilization; and Director, Levin-Lieber Program in Jewish Ethics at the Reconstructionist Rabbinical College. He is the former president of the College and is the editor in chief of the groundbreaking seven-volume Kol Haneshamah prayer book series.

"The inspiration for this project comes from the many Jews who want to know how Jewish culture can guide them in a rapidly changing world. I believe that can happen only when we join one another in a dialogue about how we should live as Jews."
—Rabbi Teutsch

About the Series

"An indispensable addition to the library of all who seek individual and communal guidance and insight from the sources of Jewish tradition in virtually every area of life."

—Rabbi David Ellenson, Chancellor
Hebrew Union College—Jewish Institute of Religion (Reform)

"A 'must read' for anyone who wants to understand the Reconstructionist approach to Judaism."

—Rabbi Elliot Dorff, Rector
American Jewish University (Conservative)
