

Baseballs, Basketballs and Matzah Balls*

Sunday, April 4th 10 AM
Or Hadash

190 Camp Hill Road, Fort Washington, PA 19034

Come hear Rabbi Mitchell Smith discuss his recently published book examining the connection between Jewish thought, practice history, ethics and sports. Rabbi Smith is a graduate of the Reconstructionist Rabbinical College and has a Ph. D in Educational Psychology. He is a nationally recognized sport psychology consultant and is currently the Director of Sport Psychology Services at Florida Atlantic University. He is the founder of the Center for Sport and Jewish Life.

Kosher for Passover refreshments will be served

Please RSVP no later than April 1 to

Burt Siegel [siegelb2@comcast.net]

* "A must -read! Mitch Smith brings age-old texts to life, and conveys how concepts like team work, resilience, and refusing to succumb to defeat---mainstays in sports---not only allowed the Jewish people to weather history's storms, but to constantly engage in self-renewal."

Dr. Richard Lapchick, Director, Institute for Diversity and Ethics in Sport